Tangle and Flow

Kim Rempel

Artist Statement

"Tranquil moments, unexpected connections, echoes of nature. Abstract art is a mirror. What you see in it belongs to you.

In these paintings, I've found myself on a journey of self-discovery, in learning to lean into pure creativity and raw expression. A joyful rebellion in the face of uncertainty. Through this body of work, I invite you to leave your expectations behind and allow the tangle and flow of colour and movement to wash over you."

A Note from the Artist

While I began my career as a landscape artist, over the past two decades I've felt an additional pull to explore abstract painting. I took to it immediately and felt instantly at home. Since then, I've continued to develop both disciplines in equal measure. For a time, I perceived this duality as problematic, but I have come to realize it as a gift. It has allowed me to express and be true to my whole self.
